Making Copies: Fair Use

Instructors submitting material for copying or scanning are responsible for evaluating on a case-by-case basis whether the use of a copyrighted work falls under Fair Use. There is a Fair Use Attribution form you must fill out and submit for each copy request. The form is intended to assure that you examine all factors surrounding the circumstances of your proposed use. Forms and a Fair Use Primer are available in the SB and online.

Emailing Copy/Print Orders

You may email copy/print requests to the SB. An email form is available on our intranet site. Download that form and copy/paste the text into the body of your email and fill out the information completely. Attach all files for output, including (if necessary) a Fair Use Attribution Form.

Projects: Academic and Administrative

For large scale, extended, or critical projects, please contact Tyler Page, Bethy Wanvig, or Chloe Wolfe well in advance. We want to make sure we are capable of doing the project as well as able to commit the proper resources to its completion.

Class Visits and Demos

If your assignments will require your students to use the SB, make sure you understand how they will be utilizing the SB. Ask questions before projects are given and, if necessary, we can give you a demo, or give one to your class. We can also visit your class to convey more detailed information or instructions for a given project.

Making Copies: From Books

SB staff will not make copies directly from books for copyright reasons. Customers need to make a master original of their own to supply for copying. Ask SB staff for more info. Public copiers in Library, 3rd Floor Main, and 4th Floor Main.

Student Support

We are here to help students output their projects and can assist in showing them proper print settings, how to set up files, and make process and technique recommendations; we do not teach students how to use software. If we feel a student's level of need for software support is greater than we can provide, we will refer them to the Learning Center.
