

The UCSF Library Archives and Special Collections and the Makers Lab are excited to announce an artist in residence pilot program. Are you an artist? We invite you to apply!

The UCSF Library Artist in Residence award will be given annually to one candidate with a degree in Studio Arts or a related field and/or a history of exhibiting artistic work in professional venues. The goal of this program is to promote health humanities by exposing and re-purposing historical materials preserved in the Archives and Special Collections. Possible projects can include, but are not limited to: painting; photography; performance; sculpture; 3D scanning and 3D printing; programmable electronics; and digital, video or installation art.
